Africa's Role in Global Security: Literature Reviews by Region

Project Title	Africa's Role in Global Security: Literature Reviews by Region
Project Summary	Find existing research on the role of four regions, the Red Sea Littorals, East, West, and North Africa, in global security. Prepare a literature review for each region. Although literature reviews should be at a Master's level in terms of content, they are expected to be less than five pages each.
Country	Germany

Project Description

These literature reviews will inform the development of a strategic-level forum with senior-level interagency participation. Interns are expected to be able to produce formal documents that do not require considerable additional editing in terms of grammar and style. Interns with academic experience on Africa, particularly African security, are highly encouraged to apply. Interns will be asked to submit an academic paper on any topic as a writing sample.
